- StormFest focuses on experiential field lessons about local water quality and stormwater education that meet Washington State Common Core and NGSS standards.
- We are seeking individuals with varying levels of experience in environmental science (including watershed science), education (formal or informal) or working with children.
- We will provide training and support.
- In order to reflect the Highline Public Schools community and student body, we seek to recruit a diverse group of station educators, representing multiple languages, races, ethnicities and countries of origin.
